Dear SLD Read Families and Tutors,

Last night, Governor Whitmer, announced that all schools will be closed until April 3rd. Additionally, many of the locations that SLD Read uses to meet for tutoring have made adjustments to how their spaces can be used at this time. In order to evaluate the current situation, SLD Read is suspending all tutoring until we have the opportunity to better gauge the options that are available to offer limited tutoring as we move forward. We will be informing you about options for limited out of school tutoring, based on both tutor and parent comfort levels, as we evaluate the possibilities. Any school-based program will be placed on hold until schools reopen. All offices will be operating with limited staffing at this time. The health and safety of our tutors, families, staff, and community are our primary concern as we navigate this rapidly changing situation. Thank you for your attention and support during this time.

Sincerely,

Amy Walker

Chief Executive Officer
